UpStaged Theatre Company Present...

100

UpStaged Theatre Company brings to the Theatro Technis the much-acclaimed piece 100. With a young, vibrant and skilled cast this play tackles the ultimate question – “What happens after life?”

100 sets the premise that to pass through the void of death and to reach eternity you must first choose a memory from your former life. The memory that you pick will be the one you re-live forever and ever and ever, new to you every time but the memories that you do not select will be deleted from your mind and be as if they never existed to you. You now have only one hour to decide.

From your whole life, from all you've ever done, felt or thought... what is the one thing you treasure most? The characters in 100 are forced to choose and re-enact their memories, using only their bodies, bamboo sticks and scraps of material to reveal their stories and fluidly transform 'sets'. We are magically transported to a dramatic French motorbike race, a tropical rainforest and a London tube train as each character in turn tries to capture their memory for eternity.

With a gripping plot and some superb work in both physical and absurd theatre, this is a production not to be missed. 100 won a Fringe First Award for 'innovation in theatre and an outstanding new production at the Edinburgh Fringe Festival 2002', where it enjoyed a total sell-out run, so it is with great pleasure and expectancy that the UpStaged Theatre Company bring you this challenging, thought provoking and breathtaking piece of theatre.

This production of 100 will transfer to the Edinburgh Fringe Festival in the summer of 2010 so catch it this March as it previews at Theatro Technis, Camden and witness how a single gesture can speak volumes about yourself, loved ones and your life.
